Abstract:

Kate Wake is a fictional narrative about two women, one contemporary (Katie) and one historical, set into the history of psychiatric health practices on the Canadian prairies. Kate Wake is loosely guided by this myth as a working-through of loss by an individual compelled to return to the original scene and the unconscious. Doing so is risky, but may also result in a movement towards recovery, relying on lexicons of music, visual art, poetry and psychoanalysis, Kate Wake develops themes of loss, hope, and of making a work of art.
