Abstract : This document examines why it is important to increase meaningful involvement of people who use illegal drugs in the response to human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) infection and hepatitis C and how this can be done. Recommendations for ensuring greater, meaningful and sustained involvement of people who use illegal drugs in aspects of Canada's response to HIV/acquired immune deficiency syndrome (AIDS) and illegal drug use are provided. These include: recognition of national and provincial government units of the value of organizations of people who use illegal drugs; and capacity building initiatives for people who use drugs; participation of people who use drugs in consultations, committees and fora where policies, interventions or programs concerning them are planned, discussed, determined or evaluated; and efforts to increase involvement of people who use drugs in community-based organizations.
