 Dictionary of economic plants.Author(s) : UPHOE, J. C. T.Book : Dictionary of economic plants. 1959 pp.404 pp.

Abstract : In this annotated list of over 6000 economic plant species, a valuable reference work for libraries of botanical research institutes, colleges and schools has been prepared. The arrangement is alphabetical. The scientific names are given in heavy type and are followed by descriptive matter. Cross references to common names or to popular names are given in ordinary type. In addition to the information on individual plants, the work lists generic names, groups of plants such as edible fungi, sources of fibre, food plants, emergency food plants, food plants for livestock (a formidable list), medicinal plants. Printing was done in Germany. The type is clear and well spaced and the book is bound in a way that it opens out flat easily, considerations which make for easy reference.

good dictionaries, this one also affords pleasurable browsing. The bibliography (400) is comprehensive.-G. M. Roseveare.
