Reference Librarianship and the Researchers Following God's Methods to Understand God's Book?

Brian W. Holda, Cornerstone University, Grand Rapids

Abstract

The Association of College and Research Libraries (ACRL), Association of Christian Librarians (ACL), and other librarian associations strongly encourage the use of expert resources in reference transactions, and consistently regard the Bible as the most authoritative. This article applies and examines the Bible in the context of biblical studies' librarianship practices, and in light of the Bible's teachings. It concludes by encouraging Christian librarians to use the Bible as recommended Bible resources, and challenges them to assess the Bible using Scripture as a starting point.
