Abstract

This article reports on aromatherapy treatments and their effects given to Fibromyalgia (FM) sufferers. As general information, the symptoms of FM and its treatment by allopathic medicine are described. The second part goes on to describe how the FM sufferers feel and what may be the causes for those feelings. Thirdly, the basis of the style of aromatherapy used in the treatments as well as a list of possible oils to use is mentioned. Finally, the fourth part describes the case studies.
