Book : Project evaluation: an integrated financial and economic analysis. 1991 pp. of ref.7pp. of

Abstract : Project evaluation or appraisal is often required by funding agencies and development institutions before they invest in developing countries. This book provides a detailed account of evaluation procedures, adopted by development agencies, as recommended by UNIDO. After a brief introduction, part 1 outlines the different phases of project evaluation, such as feasibility studies, implementation and ex-post evaluation. The procurement also discussed, in section 2. Part 2 provides a detailed analysis of financial factors that could possibly affect investments, including liquidity planning. Finally, part 3 provides a review of the economic factors that affect project evaluation. Cost benefit analysis was pursued for a hypothetical case study.
