Having a good command of Chinese language, Wang Daiyu, a famous Islamic writer of the regions south of the iod of the Ming Dynasty, criticized several Islamic books (written in Chinese) in his The Real Commentary on the T e books is Stilly Explanation of Kalima Sahada. Modern scholars most probably agree that this book has been lost. safe to say that this book is Zhang Zhong's Explanation of Kalima, which is based on the comparison of some sente of Kalima Sahada cited by Wang Daiyu and other Islamic books written in Chinese. Thus, it is evident that a cultura ong Muslim scholars of the regions south of the Yangtze River in late Ming Dynasty. And the dispute is mainly a res es of Muslim scholars to Han cultures.
