Book : Passion flowers and passion fruit. 1991 pp.176 pp.

Abstract : Passiflora is a large genus with over 400 species, most of which have ornamental value and several species (19 listed) produce edible fruit. The book is on the following topics: (1) Passiflora, classification and structure; (2) The passion flower; (3) Cultivation; (4) Propagation; (5) The species, hybrids and cultivars; (6) Hybridization; (7) Passion flower butterflies; (8) Pests and diseases. In all, over 100 species, hybrids and cultivars are described, accompanied by many fine photographs and line drawings, and notes on cultural requirements. The book concludes to use identification key to the species, using leaf shape and size, flower size of petals and corona filaments as distinguishing characters.
