An exercise in course-book evaluation: Strengths, weaknesses, and recommendations regarding New English file: Elementary.

Julián Felipe Gutiérrez-Bermúdez

Abstract

Often overlooked and reduced to a quick and shallow ‘flick test’, materials evaluation is a logistical purpose of making an effective selection of materials that cater to the opportunities for further development of their practices based upon the contents and characteristics of the material. The purpose of this article will be then, to conduct an exercise in materials evaluation making a review of the different theoretical stances and experiences on the matter. This is a structured, qualitative evaluation. Based on the results of the application of the aforementioned teaching material on a particular context.
