Chapter Summary

For late 20th century archaeologists of our era, excavations are expected to yield evidence of ancient systems of cc behavior manifest by material culture: architecture, artifacts and texts. So too the Babylonians. In the vast majority archaeological enterprises, the main object of the search was stated to be the foundations of a previous temple, lo: ultimate strategy of recovery included first rebuilding, and then restoration of the old cult. One of the most interes is that the Neo-Babylonian rulers refer not only to the wall foundations but also to the royal foundation deposits o Nabopolassar seems to have recorded for the wall in Babylon and as Nabonidus recorded that Nebuchadnezzar ha the Middle Babylonian ruler Burnaburiash.

Keywords: Babylonian archaeologists; Burnaburiash; Nabopolassar; Nebuchadnezzar
