Overview

Chapter Summary

Travel to sacred sites constitutes an integral part of New Age spiritual culture. This chapter examines the phenomenon of New Age activities, the town of Sedona in north-central Arizona. It begins by examining the geculture. Located part-way between Phoenix and the Grand Canyon, the small town of Sedona and its surrounding million tourists a year. The chapter also examines Richard Leviton's book The Galaxy on Earth: A Traveler's Guide Geography (2002). The book presents a most impressively wide-ranging synthesis of New Age views on sacred space. The geography of New Age spirituality is in many ways novel in its embrace of a global, post-Apollo and post-Sputnik

Keywords: New Age culture; New Age pilgrimage; sacred sites; sacred space; Sedona; The Galaxy on Earth
