Book : Training for transformation: a handbook for community workers. Book 2. pp.

Abstract : The book (one of three) provides a basic and comprehensive text for education workers, social workers, community development workers, church workers, trade union educators, and all concerned with the process of transforming communities. It is designed to assist workers in the field who are encouraging the development of self-reliant creative communities. It integrates: the approach of Paulo Freire and method into practice; Manfred MaxNeef's understanding of fundamental human group methods which are essential for participatory education; organization development, which stresses how to build structures which enable people self-reliant; social analysis to help groups find the root causes of problems; Gramsci's dynamic structural analysis of different roles in society. Four chapters examine: trust and dialogue in groups; leadership and participation; decision making and action planning; and evaluation.
