Type of Research:	Book
Creators:	Breward, Christopher and Gilbert, David
Description:	This collection of essays was published in 2006 by Berg Publishers. It explores the development of London as a global fashion capital, alongside other cities such as New York, Paris, and Tokyo. The book examines the ways in which fashion has shaped the city's identity and its role in the global economy. Whilst individual studies of fashion in different cities are included, the broader concept of the fashion city is also explored. The editorial approach follows a thematic structure, exploring fashion culture, the ways in which fashion is represented across a range of media, production and consumption, and the role of fashion in the city. The book supported and researched by the UAL Research Centre, and includes contributions from leading researchers in sociology, fashion studies, and urban studies. It is a valuable resource for anyone interested in the history and development of fashion cities. Alongside new readings of the fashion city, the book also includes a consideration of cities whose fashion industries are emerging, such as Moscow, Dakar and Mumbai.
